

Further Education and Training Micro-Qualifications

– an exciting new FET offering from 16 Education and Training Boards across the country

What are FET Micro-Qualifications?

FET MQs are a new upskilling offer for Irish business, for both employees and employers

They are short, stackable accredited programmes delivered locally by 16 ETBs

A FET MQ is typically 25 hours training delivery and 25 hours self-directed learning

Tutor Supported Learning

Self Directed
Learning

FET MQ

Distinctive features of FET MQs

Relevant to the workplace

developed in collaboration with enterprise agencies and companies

Future-proofed skills

in areas as diverse as sustainability, digital, robotics, aquaculture, business innovation and market development

Flexible

delivered locally to suit busy work schedules

QQI accredited to ensure recognition of skills

Highly subsidised

delivered at little to no cost to individuals and employers

Partners

SOLAS, ETBs,
enterprise agencies,
sectoral agencies,
companies and QQI

"We were able to bring all these new skills back to the business basically straight away, starting off with waste segregation, looking at reusable items for the business, cutting out plastics and also energy savings."

Jon Geary – Little Mamma's

"I would recommend these micro-qualification courses to others. It is great being able to do a course in bite size chunks knowing that they are accredited."

Audrey Rossa – Count on Us Recruitment

Contact your local ETB to find out more or visit skillstoadvance.ie

